

THE HOLY CITY.

There is no subject of more touching sacred song than "The Holy City," and when it did on one occasion it told by the Sabbath Recorder, in the following pathetic story, which will touch the heart of the most hardened. It shows what a sacred song can do:

"Thirty men, red-eyed and disheveled, lined up before a judge in a San Francisco police court. It was a regular morning company of drunks and disorderlies. Some were old and hooded—others hung their heads in shame. Just as the threnody disorder attending the bringing in of the prisoners quieted down, a strange thing happened. A strong, clear voice from below began singing:

"Last night I lay sleeping,
Above came a dream so fair."

"Last night! It had been for them all a night of drunken stupor.

The song was such a contrast to the horrible fact that orphans could fall of a sudden sleep at the thoughts the song suggested.

"I stand in old Jerusalem—Beside the temple there"—

the song went on. The judge had paused. He made a quiet inquiry. A former member of a famous opera company, known all over the country, was waiting for trial for forgery. It was he who was singing in his cell.

Meantime the song went on, and every man in line showed emotion. One or two dropped on their knees. One boy at the end of the line, after a desperate effort at self-control, leaned against the wall, buried his face against his folded arms and sobbed, "O, mother, mother!"

The solo, cutting to the very heart the men who heard, and the song still swelling its way through the courtroom, blending in the hash. Then one man protested.

"Judge," said he, "have we got to submit to this? We're here to take our punishment, but this—"

He, too, began to sob.

It was impossible so proceed with the business of the courts, yet the judge gave no order to stop the song. The police sergeant, after a surprised effort to keep the men in line, stepped back and waited with the rest. The song moved on to its climax.

"Jerusalem! Jerusalem!
Sing for the night is o'er!
Hosanna in the highest!
Hosanna forevermore!"

The judge looked into the faces of the men before him. There was not one who was not touched by the song—not one in whom some impulse was not stirred. He did not call the cases singly, but with a kind word of advice he dismissed them all. The song had done more good than punishment could have accomplished.

THE STATE PRESS.

A better, brighter and more hopeful spirit is observed among our people than for years. It's a good thing. Pass it around and keep it moving and don't let it lag or die out.—Tampa Tribune.

Every man should feel a pride in his own town, and use every means possible to advance its every interest. A town composed of such a citizenship will prosper and grow like the "green bay tree," etc.—Manatee Record.

The Jacksonville Metropolis shows its complete information regarding the public affairs of Florida by referring twice in one editorial paragraph to "Sheriff Knight" of Tampa. We didn't know he was sheriff.—Tampa Herald.

As Isham Edwards says he is ready to die and the Governor has signed his death warrant, there seems to be no reason (says the Pardon Board) why he should not "skip the ditch" on the day appointed. Isham has confessed to the murder of School Superintendent Eppes of Leon county.—Palatka News.

The Industrial Edition of The Daily Sun, to be distributed at the State Fair in Tampa, will be a complete history of the county of Alachua and the city of Gainesville, and in this county history will be a full description of every town in the county. It will be published in two volumes of the whole county, and so there will be much reserved for the publications of the business men of the county, all who desire to take advantage of this opportunity should apply to the master at ease, as the time is near at hand for placing the copy for the work in the hands of the printer. The edition will be distributed free to all and will be printed with a very neatly designed cover, with a view of one of our beautiful lakes and a fine photo of the court house.

BUNNEDRINK.

It is said these words produce a poison that will prove death, if they are allowed to develop.

Don't borrow trouble. Better borrow something that will be thankfully repaid when you return it.

Alum water is said to be a sure cure for snake-bite. It may be, but it will never be as popular as the antidote that comes from old Kentucky.

Some people are in the habit of fault-finding and it often banishes cheerfulness with them. Every grown name a few gray hairs to put in an appearance.

The man who was so busy and poor that he desired the corn to be shelled, when the generous neighbor offered to give him to keep him from starving, will live.

The advertiser who quotes prices never gets less. Such advertisements are always read by careful buyers, and if a mistake is made in the price it is sure to be discovered.

The State of Arkansas has removed the quarantine on Florida oranges. But that does not suit much of a figure, as there is a market for every orange-grown in this State without sending a box there.

We wish to inform the young fellow who was talking so low and sweet over the telephone the other day, that a Kansas man was fined $25 for proposing over the 'phone. The soft in the parlor is the proper place for such solemn events.

Several Ohio bankers who will not be able to attend the National convention at Washington, owing to a construction of their business methods by their peers in that State, may hold a meeting at Columbus, where a dozen of them are rejourning.

Russia is now trying to show that her laws are all right in regard to the people of that country, and the efforts of other countries to make her appear blander than she really is, is all wrong. There may be such a thing as good law, but when the Czar and M. Witte enforce any law they see fit, regardless of the existing statutes, that is where the trouble comes in. Possibly the country may have some good qualities hidden away somewhere, but they have never been exposed sufficient for the people of the world to get a view of them.

For operating a blind tiger in Gainesville a man was fined $100 this week by Mayor Thomas. In default of payment of the fine the man was promptly sent to jail. Such fines as this would soon break up the violations of the prohibition law if such men as Mayor Thomas presided over all the courts and exercised the right to impose such penalties as would make violations so expensive that few would care to brave the law.—Tampa Herald.

HEADACHE.

"My father had been a soldier from Dick's Landing for the last twenty-five years and never found any relief until he began taking your Cascara. Since he has begun taking Cascara he has never had the headache. They have entirely cured him. Cascara does what you recommend them to do. I will give you the privilege of using his name." W.M.
